

FORMTEK NEWS ANNOUNCEMENT

Formtek, Inc. (www.formtek.com) has completed a series of contracts to enhance the implementation of Alfresco One at the California Institute for Regenerative Medicine (CIRM).

CIRM, California's stem cell institute, funds stem cell research at institutions and companies throughout California with the goal of accelerating treatments to patients with unmet medical needs.

The initial contract included the migration of documents, users and groups from Xerox DocuShare to Alfresco One. This was followed by a second contract to customize and configure the migrated system to meet CIRM's Records Managements requirements. The customization included implementing intelligent filing rules and automatically creating disposition schedules for new categories of records.

Formtek is under a continuing contract to provide support for CIRM's Alfresco One implementation.
